Brekinridge's Horse.

The following paragraph, from Breckinridge's speech, shows how much hope he has of being elected President:

"I look forward with pleasure to the prospect I have of serving my country in the Senate of the United States for the next six years."

If Mr. Breckinridge now to go before the Legislature on an election, his prospects of serving in the United States Senate would be equal to his present Presidential prospects.

Douglas and Johnson

At Fort Wayne, Tuesday, Oct. 2d

The grand Democratic rally in this city, on Tuesday next, to receive & hear Messrs Douglas and Johnson, will beyond all doubt be the grandest thing ever witnessed in Northern Indiana. From every direction we hear that arrangements are making for a tremendous turn out. From DeKalb we are assured we may look for a that can possibly raise teams. Noble county will be here by hundreds; Little Whitley will send almost her entire population; Adams to the same; Wells will have not less than 1000 representatives; and our county will swell the throng to an extent that will sink all previous gatherings into insignificance. Come one, come all! Remember, that Douglas and Johnson are to speak, and it is well worth a journey to hear such eloquent expounders and defenders of Democratic principles.

GREAT DEMOCRATIC MEETING

[illegible]

SPEECH OF [illegible]

[illegible]

I was a [illegible] Democrat [illegible] Douglas [illegible] hero of Republicanism [illegible] integrity, [illegible] Stephen A. [illegible] standard-bearer [illegible] that as the slavery question was the absorbing question of the day he would not depart from the general rule, in fact, he was for against this sense of what is due to the preservation of the Union, to contest the historic topic. He would meet it fearlessly. He suggested the plan, that every one rightly to serving, in all things, the eleventh commandment, which is, "mind your own business." A careful consideration of this would save the American people a vast deal of trouble and expense, and bad feeling. It is the only solution of this vexed question. In Indiana attends to her own domestic affairs, has not Kentucky the same right, and should we interfere? Are have not the people of the territories the same right also. Any one who says to the contrary, though he may affiliate with the Democratic party, is not a Democrat at heart. Mr. Turpie's speech kept the large audience in rapt attention, and he was frequently interrupted by enthusiastic bursts of applause. A comparison he made between the present Republican party and our patriot fathers, we cannot refrain from alluding to. He showed very felicitously the boasted claim of the Republicans that they are following in the footsteps of the fathers of the country was eminently absurd. He demonstrated that twelve of the thirteen States at the time of the formation of the Federal Government were slaveholding—that a large majority of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and those who framed our Constitution, were slaveholders, and yet, to-day, the Republican party holds that it is sinful and unlawful to own slave property! Of course, therefore, in their opinion, Washington, Mason, Carroll, and all the great and good, whose names adorn the pages of our country's history, the founders of the Republic, were guilty of sin against God, their country, and mankind. Was Charles Carroll [illegible] Carrollton, who, when asked [illegible] determined to abide by the cause of the liberty of the colonies, that when after he had signed his name as plain as Charles Carroll, some one observed that he, in case of defeat, he would have a chance of escaping the fate of the others, as there were two Charles Carrolls in Maryland, instantly took the pen and signed his name "Charles Carroll of Carrollton," so as to preclude the possibility of a mistake. Was he a traitor to his country? Was he a man to sin against his God and his fellow-men? The gist of Mr Turpie's speech was this: there was but one way to extricate the country from its present deplorable political position, and that was a safe and an easy one; viz: to adopt the doctrine of Popular Sovereignty and Non-Intervention in all its integrity, a doctrine which is based upon an equality of all the rights and privileges of all States and territories. This eminently just idea and solution of the grievous trouble was the bread of Mr. Turpie's eloquent and patriotic speech.

The Hickory Club was out with music and torches and made a most brilliant appearance. They escorted Mr. Turpie to the Court House and after his speech back to his hotel. Afterward they marched through the principal streets of the city, waking the echoes by their shouts for Douglas and Popular Sovereignty.

REPUBLICAN KNOW-NOTHINGISM.

A few days ago we published an extract from a speech delivered in 1855 by Jean M. Wilson, of New Albany, (afterwards the Republican candidate for Congress in that District) condemning the most vile and disgusting abuse of our foreign fellow citizens. The Times, of course, of course, denied that he ever made such a speech,—and on Monday republished the denial, vouching it by a statement, said to be signed, by a number of citizens of the place where the speech was delivered, who declare that he did not make, or attribute to him. Notwithstanding this, we adhere to the belief that he did make the speech, and have not the slightest doubt of the fact. It is in perfect keeping with the sentiments of the speaker, and agrees instantly with what he was in the habit of saying wherever he made speeches during the canvass. The fact is notorious, and no man in this part of the State pretends to disbelieve it—any more than our citizens do that editor of the Times, at that time was in the habit of using precisely similar language.

We give below a sketch of this infamous speech, from the Washington Democrat, taken, as will be seen, from notes made by the editor, during the delivery. Can any thing be more conclusive? Is more evidence necessary? If so, it may be found in the fact that when first published it was verified by the affidavit of a number of the best citizens of Washington, who testified that they heard the speech, and that the report was substantially true and correct. We have not a copy of this affidavit, and have not the slightest doubt of its authenticity, or that Wilson made the speech. We have not the affidavit now in our possession, but have no doubt it could be procured if necessary. We do not think it is, as we are convinced our readers are satisfied of Wilson's infamy.

Citizens of foreign birth, read what this man says of you—compare his infamous slanders with the blandishments—the soft soap and blarney—his party is now liberally bestowing on you—remember their organ here was at that time virtually rabid in invectives against you—that many of their present "candidates endorsed and reiterated the slanders—and then if you are willing to acknowledge they were all deserved, vote for them; if not, vote for the Democrats, who have always befriended and defended you, and to whom you owe all the rights you now enjoy.

[From the Washington (Indiana) Democrat.]

Wilson Then and Now.

We have now before us full notes of a speech made by John M. Wilson, at the seminary here in this town, in 1855. We took them for the purpose of preserving them, and it is well we did so. We thought, when we heard his speech the sentiments which it contained and were uttered by Wilson, would some day cut a figure in the politics of the country. We call in this article only give what he said to Congress, leaving the other matters for the time. All will readily remember that the meeting was held shortly after the outrages in Kansas, as well as in New Albany; and the whole country was excited by the [illegible] toward foreigners, and we [illegible] more especially the Democrats adhered to the support of the rights of the foreign born against Know-Nothing misrule. In this speech Wilson said:

[illegible] never left his native land but [illegible] is government being tyrannical [illegible] here for the purpose of selling [illegible] and power of this nation. The [illegible] was to further their ambition [illegible] and finally subvert republicanism [illegible] country. Tell me, said he, that the French can reverence Bunker Hill; tell me that [illegible] can reverence Brandywine or Trenton; [illegible] that an Irishman can reverence any [illegible] debts, and—I'll tell you I don't believe a word of it. The Frenchman will only [illegible] and chuckle at you, and point you to Austerlitz, to Waterloo and Austerlitz; the German will point you to the battle fields of his fatherland, and tell you to look there for power and bravery; the Irishman will point to his drive hogs, and boastingly declare the mighty deeds performed with his shillalah. They have a love for our battle fields, and, wherever they go to a place where a battle has been fought and the blood of the enemy been shed, they will shout with joy and swear that a foreigner took the lives of as many Americans as were lost by themselves. In the heart of the foreigner beats not a single noble impulse, not one single throb of patriotism! He is so brutish and degraded that he has no sympathy for anything but cabbage and lager beer, potatoes and buttermilk, or some other outlandish dish, fit only for the hogs of the street or pen. All the oaths in the world cannot bind them. You may swear them to renounce their allegiance to their prince or king, and to support our constitution, and it amounts to nothing. They care no more for oaths of this kind than the idle wind which passes slightly by.

What Englishman does not hang his head with shame at the mention of Jackson's name and swear in his heart for revenge? What German does not sneak away at the mention of Washington and vow eternal enmity and destruction to him who slew his Hessian brethren at Trenton? You may say Lafayette was an exception. He was not. Ambition and envy prompted him on to make himself powerful. Nothing but ambition ever led any foreigner to espouse the cause of American liberty and could the vile and low-lived foreign wretches who were born in the old world to-day advance their interests they would rebel against him in spite of all your oaths of allegiance.

Some tell me that many foreigners are intelligent yes, intelligent! How in the name of almighty God can they say it? Look at the GERMAN SMOKING HIS PIPE, AND IF YOU CAN SEE RAY OF INTELLIGENCE IN THAT DIRTY, IDIOTIC LOOKING FACE of his, show it to me. Look at the DRUNKEN, BLOATED IRISHMAN, with his rotgut whisky bottle in his pocket, and he drunk, and cursing and reeling, and show me in THAT BLOTTED FACE any spark of morality, intellect or education. The idea is perfectly absurd, it is perfectly preposterous.

We must change the laws of the land and PREVENT THE IGNORANT, DEGRADED PUPPET, from being placed in any office in the gift of a free and enlightened people. We want a set of UNFALTERING PATRIOTS, not a set of UNFALTERING VILLAINS AND RUFFIANS who congregate in and around our villages and large cities, and DIVE BY stealing and begging from the Americans. Some say they have rights. So they have—the right to live under our laws and till the soil, and DO AS WE BID! They are inferior in intellect and intelligence to the Americans, and they must be and SHALL BE PUT DOWN AND KEPT DOWN IF IT HAS TO BE DONE AT THE POINT OF THE BAYONET AND WITH POWDER AND LEAD. There is no use to talk mincingly or of fearing results in regard to the matter. The ball has been set in motion. New Albany has commenced the work of moving them, and our sister city of Louisville has caught the spirit and done and did likewise.—A great cry has gone up from the Old-Liners about the foreigner being driven away from the polls and not being allowed to vote. This I suppose, is true in many respects. Would you have the American citizens to stand back and let a BLOATED, RED-VISAGED, DRUNKEN BRUTE OF AN IRISHMAN VOTE instead of himself. See the wretch as he approaches; his knees knocking and the slobber of tobacco running down his jaws, and as he comes you hear him "Hurrah for Democracy": and here he comes fresh from the bogs just one year ago and wants to vote, but because the boys cry 'move him' and he gets knocked down for his impudence a great cry is made about it by Old-Line demagogues. I SAY IT IS RIGHT; let them stand back.

Again: You see a WIDE-MOUTHED, LOP-EARED, MULLET-HEADED DUTCHMAN coming up just from some hut in the Land of Krout with the FOAM OF BEER still sticking on his house tail whiskers and his breath smelling of garlic enough to kill a white man three hundred yards, and, before he can say anything in the world but "Democrat," he must vote and the Dutch count as much as yours or mine. This outrageous and abominable, THESE FOREIGNERS who have carried the elections for Old Liners WILL HAVE TO LEARN THEIR PLACES. THEY HAVE NO MORE RIGHT TO VOTE THAN BRUTES OF THE FIELDS AND HAVE NOT HALF THE SENSE OF A GOOD NEWFOUND LAND DOG and God knows that, were I candidate for any office, I would tell these PAUPERS AND VAGABONDS, these VILE, DIRTY, FILTHY, DEGRADED, IDIOTIC FOREIGNERS I don't want their votes, and if I am ever a candidate I hope to God I never will get them.

The Douglas Meeting.

Extra Trains!!

Extra trains will be run on the Pittsburgh Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, from Lima (Ohio) and Plymouth, on Tuesday next, arriving here at 11 A. M. and departing after the proceedings are over at night. We have not learned the exact rate of fare, but learn that it will be very low, probably about one-third the usual charge. On the Wabash Valley Railroad passengers will be brought for half fare or less. We have not learned whether any extra train will run, but understand there will, if the number of passengers will justify it.

STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS!

Let the enemies of the Democratic party say what they please, sneer as they may, as is their wont, one thing is evident to all, and that is that Stephen A. Douglas is enshrined in the hearts of the American people. Wherever he has been, North or South, the people have attended in multitudes to listen and to see him, to hang as it were, upon his utterings, and to greet him with the wildest enthusiasm. In New Hampshire, and in Virginia; in Maine, and North Carolinia; in his native State of Vermont, and in Pennsylvania; in the "Empire State" of New York and Ohio—North, South, East and West, wherever he has appeared, his presence has been hailed as a sun in the political heavens. In the bye-gone time, Andrew Jackson, and Henry Clay possed somewhat of the same power. They had an affinity with the masses and the masses felt it and loved them. The people instinctively know their man. There is an indescribable magnetic effluence between minds and no where is it more apparent than when the leader of a popular movement addresses the people. It is seen in the instinctive recognition by the masses of a mental and moral power which controls them. He who possesses this peculiar and governing faculty in an eminent degree, becomes, in the estimation of the masses, and he really is, the incarnation of a great idea, the one which will eventually govern them. Stephen A. Douglas is preeminently a man of this transcendent order of mind. He is identified with the great doctrine of POPULAR SOVEREIGNTY. His very looks seem like an embodiment of the idea. Self-possession, resolution, fixedness of purpose and a sturdy independence of character are his characteristics, and are strikingly expressed in his countenance. Next Tuesday, October 2d, this remarkable man will visit our city, and speak for himself. Every man possessed of physiologic curiosity, who desires to see a striking illustration of intense individuality will not neglect hearing the man of the age, the Democratic standard bearer, Stephen A. Douglas.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.—Our friend, Mr. Edward Agnew, received a telegram yesterday stating that the boiler in Wallace's marble factory, in Pittsburgh, burst, killing his brother William, and badly injuring his brother Andrew. We condole with Mr. Agnew on this great bereavement.

PARK BENJAMIN, the distinguished lecturer wit and author, will lecture here on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings next.

We are desired to give notice that Mr. Benjamin is disengaged for a few days after his course here, and may be engaged to deliver a course, or single lectures. Those wishing to engage an excellent and popular lecturer would do well to secure Mr. B.'s services.

☞ To-day, the 29th inst, Dan. O'Connell & Bro. open a restaurant over their billiard saloon in Palace Hall. Their arrangements are complete, and leave nothing to be desired. All the substantials and delicacies of the season will be on hand at all reasonable hours. The dining hall is 120 feet in length and 20 in breadth. It is furnished with every thing necessary to ensure the comfort of the patrons of the establishment. The utmost order will be always observed, and gentlemen can depend upon being waited upon promptly and politely. We are pleased to see a restaurant of this character, which has been so long needed, at last established in our city. We have no doubt of the success of D. O'Connell & Co.

P. S. Especial preparations will be made for October 2d—the Douglas day!

☞ The Old Lucky, No. 3, commanded by Commodore Chris Orff, one of the best fellows in the world, is inundated with a deluge of goods of all kinds, adapted to the wants of our people, and which are put down by him at ridiculously low rates. We won't pretend to give an enumeration of his stock, as it would take all our columns to do his superb assortment anything like justice. Next week we may, perhaps, feel adequate to the task of going over critically Chris Orff's mammoth fall and winter stock—but we will not promise, as it will be an Herculean task. However, our readers can do it for themselves; which is, perhaps, best, for they then can see for themselves.

GOOD NEWS.—The public—ladies especially—will be glad to learn that their old favorite, T. A. GREY, has returned from New York, bringing with him a glorious new stock of these excellent, serviceable goods for which his store is celebrated. In addition to staple articles, he has also a beautiful and well selected stock of Fancy and Dress Goods of all kinds, and as he has bought for cash, to the best advantage, he is going to sell cheap, as he is determined not to be undersold by any other establishment. Call and examine his goods—you may depend on finding bargains, both as regards price and quality.

☞ Mr. B. Trentman has recently purchased "Wines' Mill." This is said to be one of the best mills in the county, and we trust will prove a profitable investment to Mr. Trentman. This gentleman is one of the most enterprising citizens of our city, and we wish him abundant success in all he undertakes; and, by the way, he generally knows what he is about.

☞ T. S. Heller, an old subscriber of ours, has located himself in Port Mitchell, Noble county. He keeps there what is called a country store: molasses and pins, cloths, calicoes and cigars—in short, everything does he keep for his rural friends' delectation and delight. We trust Mr. Heller will find his sojourn in the whilom capital of old Noble, pleasant and profitable. We commend him to our friends in that meridian, and hope he may never meet their quinine and calomel.

☞ Mr. B. Trentman is now receiving the largest stock of groceries ever brought to this city. Over three hundred bags of coffee, twenty-five hogsheads and sixty barrels of sugar, one hundred half chests of tea, all of the various qualities, he has purchased; and the merits of the fact will serve to show the extent and variety of his stock. He owns his warehouse and with his sons attends to the business of the firm. He will be constantly in receipt of goods throughout the winter, so that his stock will be kept full, and equal to the requirements of the market. Mr. Trentman has long been known in our city as a merchant of irreproachable character, and we confidently bespeak for him the orders of our friends in the surrounding country. Nowhere else, in this city, can groceries be bought cheaper than at B. Trentman's.

☞ It is pleasant to know that our adopted citizens are doing their utmost to add to the attract on and enthusiasm of the great Democratic demonstration of October 2d. Our French citizens have raised money to realize the splendid banner which they carried in procession in 1856, and otherwise are taking a lively interest in the campaign. We appreciate their patriotism.

☞ On the 24th inst. Nicholas Myer was brought to his parents' home in this city from the Lunatic Asylum in Indianapolis by Sheriff Fleming. About noon next day he disappeared and has not since been found. He was last seen going toward the Pittsburgh Railroad.—His parents and friends are extremely anxious about him, and would be grateful to any one who may see him to take him in charge and send him to this city, or write us to his whereabouts. All charges will be paid. He is about 21 years of age, and about 5 feet 8 inches in height. He wears heavy black whiskers. He was dressed in black coat and pants, black velvet vest, black Kossuth hat and calf skin boots. He is an intelligent looking man, and to a casual observer would not show any signs of insanity. We trust that all who may see the unfortunate man will at once take care of him. Address C. A. Reker, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

☞ McDougal, Root & Co. have recently received from the New York Auctions the finest and cheapest assortment of Shawls, all of the latest styles and of all the various patterns and qualities, ever brought to this market. Having been bought at forced sales, for cash, they can sell them at unprecedented low rates. Shawls which were sold here last winter for from $15 to $20, they now offer for $8! Their stock embraces single and double Broche and Chamelaine Shawls; Stellas; India Stripe; Magentas; India Plush; Chenielle; Double Wool Bay State; also, India, Broche, and Chenielle Scarfs. Their assortment of general dry goods is not inferior to any in the city. Merchants like McDougal, Root & Co., will always command business.

☞ The award of Premiums at the Allen Co. Fair, and other interesting reading, will be found on the Fourth Page.

A Model Republican Orator

CARL SCHURZ, the Republican orator, has been imported into New York from Wisconsin. The Staats Zeitung, at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, thus characterizes his speech at that place, and his previous speech at Springfield:

"The great revolutionist, the man who has the impudence to stand up and slander the dead patriots and living statesmen of America in the face of American citizens, deserves a warm reception, a glorious welcome from the followers of Lincoln and Seward.
